

Healing the Culture Empowers Pro-Lifers with Answers to Pro-Choice Arguments ahead of the March for Life

Pro-life organization releases 90 second video series crystalizing the pro-life stance

Rapid City, SD, January 3, 2023— With the serious deficit of healthy dialogue around critical issues in the United States, Healing the Culture, a pro-life educational organization, has released six 90-second, quick-hitting videos to arm pro-lifers with easy tools for pro-life evangelization ahead of the March for Life. The videos can be found at www.RespectLife.University and cover a variety of topics such as rape and incest, life of the mother, fetal disabilities, and end of life care.

“There’s such a need to get intelligent, easy-to-access information out there on the truth and goodness of the pro-life position,” said Camille Pauley, President of Healing the Culture. “No one does this better than our co-founder, Fr. Robert Spitzer, and we’ve digested his wisdom into 90-second learning tools that people can learn from and share.”

Each 90-second video lays out a pro-choice argument and then provides quick, effective answers that appeal to the average person. After spending 90 seconds watching one of the videos, viewers walked away saying they felt more confident that the pro-life position is on the right side of history.

“We have people showing these videos to parents, roommates, even college professors, and telling us that they’re turning heads and causing people to wonder if they’ve been misled by the abortion juggernaut all these years,” said Pauley.

Questions like “Why was Roe v. Wade doomed to failure?” and “How can quality of life actually increase when we are dying?” pique interest and orient viewers to logical answers that take into account the dignity and rights of every human life.

“Our resources are for people who aren’t convinced by the typical pro-life arguments and need something deeper and more thoughtful, but they’re also great for pro-life people who need a refresher for why they are really pro-life,” Pauley said.

Healing the Culture, a pro-life organization that promotes the ethical treatment of life at all stages through advocacy and education has already trained thousands of college students around the world with its flagship curriculum. It also offers free resources to advocate for life, including the Respect Life University online video platform, pro-life curricula for K-12 students, and daylong retreats for parents, educators, and advocates.
